The police had been watching the two men earlier in the day and when they made the alleged attempt to short change Winters, Mahnke and Cox placed them under arerst.

The police believe that the men under arrest are "old hands" at the short change pastime. According to the police, the alleged short change work here was unusually bold.

It is charged that the two men entered the florist shop and after ordering and receiving the holly, placed a $10 gold piece on the counter. When Mrs. Winters who waited upon the men prepared to give the change for the goldpiece, it is claimed that they attempted to short change her.

DAIRIES MUST PASTURIZE MILK FOR RICHMOND

Beginning March 1st, 1916, all dairies supplying milk to Richmond must pasturizze the milk. Acording to Dr. Charles R. Blake, health commissioner of the city, had this been in effect this year, few if any of the eyphoid cases would have developed.

Berkeley which is supplied from the same dairies as Richmond did not have any cases of typhoid this year," said Dr. Blake last night. "They demand that the milk be pasturized and this is certainly a positive proof that the treating of the milk gets the desired results."

CHAPMAN PAYS A FIVE SPOT

Harry D. Chapman, the popular city engineer will be an early riser hereafter when contemplating a trip by train.

Chapman had been subpoened to appear before Federal Judge Van Fleet in the Mintzner suit. He had been ordered to appear at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Whether it was because he had difficulty in locating his collar button is not known but at any rate, Chapman galloped down to the Santa Fe depot just in time to see the train pull out.

When he arrived in San Francisco at the Federal court, the hands on the ancient time piece at the Ferry Building registered 10:30

Judge Van Fleet had in the meantime issued a bench warrant for the local city engineer, and when the Judge sighted the missing witness he levied a $5 fine on him.

Chapman's explanation failed to satisfy the jurist and now some of the boys who were figuring on that Christmas cigar, can place the blame on the railroad company.

S.P. HAS BEGUN WORK

Work was started yesterday by the Southern Pacific Railway company for the improvement of the section of Cutting Boulevard at the crossing of the Southern Pacific Railroad at Twenty-third street. The section has been a menace to motorists travelling along the boulevard. Considerable controversy between the city and the Southern Pacific interests caused a delay in starting work on the disputed section.

The Southern Pacific held that the city of Richmond should pay the bill for the improvement, while the city claimed that the railroad people were responsible for the expense of improvement.

In the meantime, motorists have said unpleasant things about the crossing, which is considered a menace and dangerous.

The Southern Pacific has finally agreed to pay for the repair of the crossing. This will be welcome news to all who use the boulevard.

With the exception of the intersection at Cutting Ashland and Richmond avenues and the extreme eastern end of the boulevard which is outside the city limits, the boulevard is without a flaw. The Municipal Improvement company will begin the work of improving the west side intersections in a few weeks, the contract having already been let by the city council.

AT THE RICHMOND

Though there have been many songs extolling life on the ocean wave and innumerable plays that picture the deeds and misdeeds of the socially elect, life on our inland waterways has seldom aroused the interest of the playwright. Hence, "Still Waters," the story of canal-boat life and of the circus, in which Marguerite Clark is featured by the Famous Players Film company on the Paramount Program at the Richmond theater tonight will prove of special interest.

A company of players spent three weeks on the banks of one of our great canals in order to get the scenes which show little Nesta (Marguerite Clark) and her old grandfather on the canal boat, which is their home. An entire circus was leased for the purpose of getting the action which transpires in and around the tent when the ring-master, having marked Nesta for his prey, attempts to force his attentions upon her.

"The Seymour House Party" a Biograph drama is another feature on the bill. This with the Hearst-Selig news and a splendid Vitagraph comedy "The Lure of the Meadows."

Saturday, one day only, Charlie Chaplin will be shown in his greatest success, "Shanghied."

TO GO TO MERCED

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harvey, 419 Twelfth street will leave today for Merced where they will spend the holidays with relatives.

THE STORY OF PIGLET WHO GREW INTO A PIG

Pigs may be pigs, but, like the classification of girls, they are all pretty but some are prettier than others. So it is with "Maud," the snow white pig owned by Mrs. A. J. Meindersee, of Pullman, wife of the forman at the Pullman car shops. Mrs. Meindersee was presented the pig when Maud was a mere piglet.

The little lamb which insisted upon following Mary to school, is not any more progressive than Maud. Whenever Mrs. Meindersee leaves her home, Maud is always ready to accompany her.

Maud is quite a big girl now, and according to Meindersee, she is easily the champion eater of the world.
